Social Credit Gov't Demand Press Control

BILL PROVIDES FOR FREE ADVERTISING; AND PROHIBITS ADVERSE COMMENT

EDMONTON.—A virtual censorship of Alberta newspapers has been set up by the Alberta "social credit" board in an act entitled "An Act to Ensure the Publication of Accurate News and Information," minute examination of the bill which was passed yesterday shows.

Commonly referred to as the "press bill," the act provides that Alberta newspapers must give the government and the "social credit" board free advertising space for publication of government statements up to one page, or in the case of weekly newspapers, space to the extent of one-tenth of the complete issue. (In the case of The Star this will amount to nearly six full columns in any one issue).

Newspaper publishers are now also required at the request of the chairman of the "social credit" board, to provide the board with a return, setting out "every source of information from which any information emanated, as to any statement contained in any issue of the newspaper published within 60 days of the making of the requirement, and the names, addresses and occupations of all persons by whom such information was furnished to the newspaper, and the name and address of the writer of any editorial, article or news item, contained in any such issue of the newspaper as aforesaid."

In other words, if any editorial or news article is published which offends the "social credit" board or the government, the publisher of the newspaper is obliged to provide the chairman of the board—Glen MacLachlan (S.C.), Coronation—with the name of the editorial writer or the reporter; in addition to giving the name of the person who supplied the reporter with the information.

Heavy penalties are provided for infraction of the act. In case the proprietor, editor, publisher or manager of any newspaper has been guilty of any contravention of any of the provisions of this act, the Lieutenant-Governor, in-council may, on the advice of the chairman by order prohibit—

(a) The publication of such newspaper either for a definite time or until further order;

(b) The publication in any newspaper of anything written by any person specified in the order;

(c) The publication of any information emanating from any person or source specified in the order.

Fines ranging from $500 to $1,000 are also provided for infractions of this Act.

School Track Meet Is Splendid Success

The Wainwright-Viking Teachers' Association held their annual fall track meet at Wainwright on Saturday, Oct. 2nd. Despite the unfavorable weather conditions a large crowd was in attendance and the meet was considered a decided success.

Nonogenarian Guest of Honor

On Wednesday evening a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Wiley to celebrate the 90th birthday of Mrs. Emma Baynton (their mother). After a delightful birthday dinner the Rev. W. S. Brooker christened the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gehring (Barbara Joan) after which light refreshments were served, including the baby's christening cake.

Car Arranged For Vegetable Gifts

Farmers and others who have vegetables to spare are reminded that the car will be on track at Wainwright on the 6th and 7th to be loaded and shipped under the supervision of the Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare to the drought-stricken areas of Alberta.

Anyone having potatoes or other vegetables to spare is requested to notify the local committee and if possible to bring the vegetables in on the dates mentioned to be shipped on this car.

Mr. James Robinson of the N. Bawit Elevator Co. Ltd. has charge of shipping arrangements.

Harvest Services St. Thomas' Church

St. Thomas' (Ang.) church was well filled at both morning and evening services on Sunday last when the harvest thanksgiving was fittingly celebrated.

At both gatherings, appropriate hymns and music was rendered, and the topics of both addresses by the vicar Rev. P. Bickard were in keeping with the occasion.

The church was prettily decorated with the fruits of field and garden, and the atmosphere was a delight to all who attended.

Germany Building 50 Years Ahead For Motor Traffic

In Germany they are looking forward to fifty years ahead in the construction of highways.

Old, winding traffic arteries are being supplanted by a great ribbon of concrete, which is slowly but surely being unrolled across the country in an almost level stretch. This ribbon is being laid into two lanes on one side and two on the other, with a broad stretch of green lawn and flowerbeds between.

Known as the Reich Auto Bahn Road, this highway is barred to pedestrians and cyclists while there are no limitations on the driving of motor cars. The speed limit is the limit of your car.

The thrill of travelling over this new highway was experienced by M. P. Hofstetter, prominent Toronto business man, who has just returned from a two-month tour of Europe. Mr. Hofstetter, who is a native of Basel, Switzerland, outlined in an interview the remarkable transformation he had found so far as German highways were concerned.

He pointed out that a few thousand miles of this new road had been built and that it extended from the Dutch border as far as Heidelberg. "Construction work," continued Mr. Hofstetter, "is still proceeding. These highways are absolutely safe and there are very few accidents. The average speed of the German cars is 40 miles an hour, whereas in small cars, but you can travel as fast as you wish if your car can take it. I was travelling 85 miles an hour in my Oldsmobile sedan, in which I toured Europe, and before me is the best way to travel in some of these countries."

With a twinkle in his eye, Mr. Hofstetter enlarged upon this point. "You see, they do not bother you so much at the border. They think you are wealthy and of some importance when they see you in a car. By the way, speaking of automobiles travelling, here's an interesting fact: I covered 5500 miles in France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and Britain and never had an accident, nor was it necessary to have any minor repairs made. I used very little water and only 2 1/2 quarts of oil."

Mr. Hofstetter disclosed how the German authorities deal with reckless or dangerous drivers. He pointed out that there are bridges which span the new highway at different points, and on each bridge is an observation post. Should a man be observed zig-zagging or driving in a dangerous manner, the official at one post telephones to the observation post farther ahead. By the time the car reaches his post, an officer is waiting. The driver is ordered to stop and, as a rule, is not permitted to continue his trip.

Asked if he had to pay any toll charges, Mr. Hofstetter replied that the only country where he had been called upon to pay a charge was in Holland, where he paid at the rate of sixty cents a day.

During the day Somerville played sound golf. His tee shots went booming down the centre of the fairway and his irons were a picture to watch, some of his pitches being of the spectacular variety. Scythies found trouble with his tee shots at times, pushing them out to the rough, which very often gave his opponent the advantage of a stroke on the greens.

When the match concluded, Scythies warmly shook hands and congratulated Sandy on his victory. "In my opinion, you have all the shots in your bag and, not only that but you can make them when you have to. It has been an education and a pleasure to play with you and although I lost, I have enjoyed every hole we played," said Mr. Scythies. Sandy blushing and modestly acknowledged the congratulations.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of town, also friends and relatives out of town for kindness and loving attention during past year of Mr. Huston's long illness and passing on Monday, September 27th.

MRS. HUSTON & FAMILY.

Unwin Would Fire R.C.M.P. From Alta.

Serving of notice on the Dominion government of termination of the agreement between it and the province, for the policing of Alberta by the R.C.M.P. and the taking of steps for the re-establishment of the Alberta Provincial Police is the subject of a resolution to be introduced into the legislature by J. H. Unwin, S.C. Edmon, notice of which was given to the house at 6 p.m. on Thursday.

Text of the resolution is as follows: "Whereas it is advisable that for the policing of the province, in a manner acceptable to the people of Alberta, it is deemed advisable that

Is The Devil Behind The Stump

The "Undistributed profits" tax of the Roosevelt administration in the United States has been assailed by thousands of independent oil jobbers as a measure to throttle and kill small business.

Without trying to see a devil behind every stump, there is occasion for some thought on the much talked-of question of profits, particularly profits of established business industries.

All businesses grow and should grow out of profits. Most small businesses start on a shoe string and grow entirely out of profit. It is true that for the dollars invested in the first place most small businesses that get anywhere make what the reformers condemn as "undistributed" percentage of profits. But what of it?

No intelligent investor would even think of "investing" in a small business. So where is a small business man going to get the capital that he needs in which to grow and improve, except out of his own profits? And if these profits are a normal "six per cent" on the "investment" how is he ever going to get anywhere because of the small amount in dollars involved?

Sandy Somerville Winner of Famous Totem Pole Trophy

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta.—"Sandy" Somerville, holder of the Canadian Amateur golf championship this year and on five other occasions, and former holder of the United States amateur championship, is the new Totem Pole golf champion for 1937. A few days ago, Sandy added the new internationally famous trophy to his long list of golf laurels when he defeated Roy Scythies, of Montreal, 9 and 7, in a 36-hole final before a large gallery. It was a fitting end to a most successful tournament, which was played under most magnificent weather conditions.

When the match concluded, Scythies warmly shook hands and congratulated Sandy on his victory. "In my opinion, you have all the shots in your bag and, not only that but you can make them when you have to. It has been an education and a pleasure to play with you and although I lost, I have enjoyed every hole we played," said Mr. Scythies. Sandy blushing and modestly acknowledged the congratulations.

In the ladies' championship, Mrs. R. C. Field, of Victoria, was victorious over Mrs. J. S. Bricker, of Vancouver, 5 and 4. Mrs. Bricker started off by winning the first two holes, but Mrs. Field, with a display of really fine golf, overcame this early lead and ended the match at the 14th hole.

PUBLISHERS SEEK TO RUN THEIR OWN BUSINESS

In refuting the right of the provincial government to "close up" the newspapers, or to rob them of the right to a "free speech and free press" the following brief was presented to the legislature last week and on behalf of all the Alberta newspapers:—

This legislation entitled "An Act to Ensure the Publication of Accurate News and Information," and introduced in the dying hours of this session, is in reality an act to control the press and to require it to publish Social Credit propaganda as prepared by a government press bureau.

It would impose a dictatorship over the press and deny to the people of Alberta their right to receive uncensored news of their government.

Such a bill is contrary to democratic principles and to long established practice in democratic countries.

The press of Alberta, consisting of 96 weekly newspapers and six daily newspapers take this opportunity in the very limited time at its disposal to place on record its vigorous and emphatic protest against this legislation.

The proposed legislation while masquerading in the guise of an act to ensure the publication of accurate news and information is an attempt to take away from the newspapers of Alberta the fundamental rights and privileges of a free press and to place them in such a position of servitude to the government that they cease to be a free press and become no more than an instrument of Social Credit propaganda.

In Great Britain control of the press was terminated in 1695 and in that year the freedom of the press was established. Once abolished in Great Britain control of the press was never revived and all ideas of restrictions on the liberty of the press, other than those contained in the law of libel, have been for that length of time unknown there.

In the United States, freedom of the press is guaranteed in the Constitution which provides that "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

In Alberta as in every other province of Canada, a free press, and the right of freedom of public discussion have been enjoyed by every citizen.

The title of the proposed legislation is clearly designed to mislead the public because it creates the false impression that it is intended to ensure publication of accurate news whereas its real object is to place in the hands of the Provincial Government the control of the newspapers of Alberta.

The proposed legislation provides that every newspaper must publish when required to do so by the Chairman of the Social Credit Board, any statement furnished by the chairman relating to:

(a) the objects of any policies of the Government of the Province;

(b) the means being taken or intended to be taken by the government for the purpose of attaining such objects; and

(c) the circumstances, matters and things which hinder or make difficult the achievement of any such objects."

To place this power in the hands of the chairman of the Social Credit board is to establish a dictatorship over the press. One of the features of dictatorial control of the press in Continental Europe is the obligatory publication of government propaganda as and when required. The press of Alberta, if this legislation is enacted, will be reduced in this respect to the servile position of the press of Russia, Germany and Italy.

"Public Denied Unbiased Information"

A newspaper could be compelled to publish statements which it may know or believe to be false, and the public will be denied the unbiased information that is essential to an informed public opinion.

It could be compelled to publish government-prepared political propaganda in the same type as ordinary news, thus, notwithstanding the designated footnote that it is supplied by the Social Credit board, giving such political propaganda the appearance of ordinary news.

It could be compelled to publish attacks on persons and institutions which it believes are entitled to support.

It could be compelled to publish government statements containing libels on individuals that may do them irreparable damage. Such individuals are deprived by the legislation of their long-established right of redress by the courts. On the other hand, the newspaper would remain subject to prosecution under the criminal code.

The clause which compels a daily newspaper to provide for government purposes as often as required as much as one page in any issue and a weekly newspaper as much as one-tenth of its total number of pages in any issue, is clearly confiscatory legislation and is comparable to compelling a merchant to supply goods or a farmer to supply grain to the government without payment.

"Stifles Free Expression"

The freedom of the press is further seriously affected by the proposed legislation in that it would deprive newspapers of some of their sources of news and would stifle the free expression of individuals on matters of public interest.

Accurate news on matters of public interest is frequently obtained by newspapers from various sources under conditions which make it impossible for those furnishing the information to allow their names to be used. Even members of this and other governments have found it expedient, in the public interest, when issuing statements regarding government policies, to conceal their identity under such phrases as "a government spokesman."

No penalty is provided in the legislation against any of the sources of news referred to or against reporters or editors. But there must be some purpose in requiring the newspapers to furnish the names of such individuals.

There is, however, presently before the legislature a bill to provide for the licensing of all trades, businesses, industries, employments and occupations and for all persons so engaged. These two pieces of legislation considered together give the government the power to regiment and penalize those individuals whose names have been required and from whom, at the sole discretion of the minister of trade and industry, their license to work may be withdrawn.

The "Big Interests" in Life Insurance

Are the Policyholders and Beneficiaries

IN Life Insurance, the "Big Interests" are the millions of Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries—men, women and children who share in the protection made possible by individual thrift and foresight.

The concern of those who act on behalf of these policyholders and beneficiaries is to safeguard their interests. Their accumulated savings, amounting to more than two billion dollars, must be invested wisely to obtain the greatest yield consistent with safety. Every promise made in Life Insurance policies must be fulfilled completely and promptly.

Canadian policyholders may feel justly proud of the wise and careful administration of their trust funds. Even in the darkest days of the depression, their companies met every obligation promptly and fully—bringing financial security to thousands of Canadian homes.

There is added satisfaction in the fact that the investment of Life Insurance funds has helped to build Canadian homes, schools and hospitals—and develop agriculture, industries and public utilities. Thus, the whole Dominion benefits from Life Insurance.

In the future, as in the past, Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries must always be the "Big Interests" of Life Insurance.

CLOTHES

After spending several weeks of the early Summer in Florida, I came back North to run into much hotter weather than I had encountered in that semi-tropical climate. But under the conventions which govern the apparel of mankind I could not, unless I wanted to appear freakish, dress in the comfortable attire which men in Florida wear. Most of the men in Florida wear no coats at all in Summer. The younger men wear by preference sleeveless "polo" shirts, open at the neck, making a necktie superfluous. A high proportion of them wear no hats.

Why, I wonder, should it be considered improper in northern cities for a man to dress appropriately for whatever the weather may be? I can see no sense in the convention that a man must wear a coat and a hat on the streets of New York when the thermometer is up in the 90's.

We tolerate loose, scanty clothes for outdoor sports in the country. It seems silly to ban them in town.

WOMEN — common-sense dress Women have gone farther than men in getting themselves free from the restrictions which fashion and "good form" used to place on their clothing. I often think that women are more logical than men in the matter of dress. At least, I think so until some change of fashion starts them all to wearing furs in mid-summer and woolen coats and skirts for outdoor sports.

This Summer I have noticed more women wearing thin cotton prints than ever before. That is a step in the right direction. And one does not have to look very far, anywhere in America, to see girls and women going about in what their grandmothers would have called "next to nothing." Backless blouses, or whatever the word is for the upper works of feminine attire, with abbreviated "shorts" or flimsy skirts are no longer confined to the bathing beaches.

This movement toward getting rid of superfluous clothes shocks many conservative-minded oldsters. I think it is a step in the direction of common-sense.

INDIANS — climatic conditions It is not only logical but inevitable that the people of any country should, sooner or later, adapt their costumes to the climate of the country in which they live. The white folks who live in America are not as logical as the Indians were. This is a land of climatic extremes, from torrid heat in Summer to bitter cold in Winter, over most of the nation. When the white men came to America they found the Indians going almost naked in Summer, from Maine to Florida, and wrapping themselves in skins and blankets only when the Winter weather made it necessary.

The settlers from Europe, however, brought their European fashions in clothing with them. We still dress by the standards of Europe, where there are no such extremes of temperature as we have in America. Over a large part of Europe one has to dress warmly even in Summer.

I see in the American tendency to discard superfluous clothes in summer the beginning of a new American independence. I hope to live to see all Americans, men and women, freed from the chains of fashion and custom and dressing to suit the climate at all times of the year.

MORALS — dress Many good people still think it is immoral for anyone, women particularly, to go about in public, even at the beaches or "the old swimming hole" without being clothed entirely from neck to knees. In their minds there is some relation between clothing and morals. The first thing the early missionaries to the South Sea Islands did was to put clothes on their converts. In a climate where clothing was unnecessary, this not only made the converted savages uncomfortable but made it harder to get new converts.

A wise philosopher once said that morals are matter of latitude. They are also a matter of chronology. Many things regarded as good morals in Queen Elizabeth's time are frowned on by the accepted moral standards of today, and we approve, or at least tolerate, many kinds of conduct today which were regarded as highly immoral by our grandparents.

While I do not believe there is any necessary relation between dress and morals, I realize that each community makes its own moral standards, and until they change it is immoral, in the broad sense, to ignore those standards publicly.

HONESTY — appearances Far more important than the outward observance of prevailing moral standards is the personal character of the individual. I think we are living in an age of honesty, that there is much less pretense among the younger people of today than there used to be when I was young.

I do not believe that there is any great difference in personal, private morals from one generation to another. I think it is a decided improvement in public morals when people no longer think it necessary to conform to artificial standards of attire to prove their "goodness" of the world. The young folk hate hypocrisy worse than anything else. They no longer believe that a bad complexion, an unbecoming dress or a black tie is proof of good character. They rather suspect the opposite. Nor do they hold that rouge, lipstick, gay clothing and reasonable, sensible comfort betake moral laxity.

It is not safe to judge people by outward appearances alone. I am inclined to be suspicious of men or women who exaggerate the customs of their communities in clothing or manners, but I am equally chary of those who ignore them entirely. And I am wrong in my judgments, probably, as often as I am right.

NEW TIPS FOR MILK

Liver is usually added in water for a short time before it is cooked.

In place of soaking it in water, try some warm milk. I tasted some the other day that had been done this way and it was delicious.

Warm milk, fresh from the cow had been used. Of course, it is not possible to arrange milking time and meal time so conveniently every day and it may be necessary to heat up some cold milk. Do try out this suggestion. I am sure that you will like it. The liver was drained from the milk, rolled in flour and fried in the usual way.

Liver is always popular, particularly when it is fried with bacon but it is nice to have a few other methods of preparing this dish. The value of liver in anemic diets is so widely known that many housewives are realizing that some liver should be included in the diet of their families as a general builder and as a preventative measure against anaemia.

Have you ever tried making a casseroles dish with liver? Would you think it wise to add some apples to this dish? Sounds rather impossible, doesn't it? It really makes a very delicious dish because the apples

Tells About Alberta's Bank Depositors and Shareholders.

THIS year, between the first day of January and the last day of August, Canada's Chartered Banks have made loans to no fewer than 57,634 Alberta customers. Who got those loans? 20,502 of them went direct to farmers and ranchers. Other individuals obtained 13,050 loans. 1,701 home-owners got Home Improvement Loans — so that Canada's Chartered Banks this year, have extended new loans to 35,253 individuals — farmers, ranchers, home-owners and other private borrowers. Commercial loans numbering 13,926 have been made to other than individuals in the same period; municipalities and school districts also obtained many new loans.

Out of 57,634 new loans made this year in Alberta, more than 60 per cent of them went to individuals. Don't let anyone tell you we've stopped lending in Alberta.

Now, I return to the question, "What is a bank?" As I said in an earlier broadcast: "Above all things a bank is a place where you or your children can deposit money with absolute assurance that any time you demand it you can get it back in full, intact and with interest."

A bank is formed by a group of responsible people who believe that they can offer a service which a community needs and is willing to pay for, at a rate which will yield a reasonable profit. These are the motives of any business.

Those desiring to form the bank name five Provisional Directors, who then must petition the Dominion Parliament for an Act of Incorporation. The Bank Act demands that the Provisional Directors must themselves be subscribers to shares in the bank. The Bank Act is a Dominion law — without such law the business of accepting the people's deposits and making loans would be wholly without safeguard.

After Parliament has acted, the Provisional Directors are authorized to invite public subscriptions for the shares. Before any person buys any share the statute requires that there be placed before him, in large type, Section 125 of the Bank Act, which informs him that if the bank becomes insolvent, the shareholder will be liable to pay once more an amount equal to the par value of his shares. This is what is known as "double liability." Since the Bank of Canada was opened the double liability has been slightly modified and, as this central bank under Government control, assumes more and more the right of note issue, the double liability of chartered bank shareholders will be further adjusted.

You will see that the law puts a serious responsibility upon the shareholder and deliberately forces it upon his attention, in order that those who are going to handle other people's money must realize their responsibility to the full. The people are thus safeguarded against fly-by-night promoters.

When Half a Million Dollars worth of stock in the new bank has been subscribed and half of that amount paid up, this $250,000 must be placed in the hands of the Minister of Finance. When the Minister is satisfied that the public interest is safeguarded, he returns the $250,000 to the bank and issues a certificate permitting the bank to open for business. The Bank Act then becomes its charter. Any idea that this bank has to put money into Government Bonds to obtain currency is wholly without foundation.

Canada's Chartered Banks do not enjoy a monopoly of the right to print money. They never did enjoy any such monopoly. You often hear it said that Canada's Chartered Banks alone can "make money" and that we can print our own notes and circulate them in unlimited amounts — such statements are absolutely false. Up to 1934 each Chartered Bank had the right to issue notes — not in unlimited amounts — but only up to the amount of the capital actually paid up. There were two exceptions to this rule — the first was that we were permitted to make a 50 per cent increase in note issue, for a limited period only, for crop moving purposes. The second exception was that over our paid-up capital we could issue dollar for dollar against gold or Dominion notes, deposited in the central gold reserves. These exceptions are no longer in force.

With the Bank of Canada established, and controlled by the Dominion Government, we can now issue our own notes only up to ninety per cent of the amount of our paid-up capital. Every year there is to be a further reduction. The Bank of Canada issues notes and as the note issue right of the Chartered Banks is progressively cut down the Bank of Canada's note issue will take its place. In other words, the right to issue our own notes is being steadily taken from us and vested in the Bank of Canada, which, I would remind you, is the Government's central bank, not a chartered bank.

I pointed out, in an earlier broadcast, that no business is subject to such complete control and such Parliamentary scrutiny as are the Chartered Banks. Can you name another business in Canada in which every company's charter automatically expires at one time and can only be renewed after Parliamentary investigation?

Although the Bank Act can be amended at any time by Parliament every ten years bank charters expire and the Act is thrown open for what is known as the "decennial revision" — which is a most sweeping and searching inquiry, conducted by the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons, Mr. Norman Jacques, M.P., for Wainwright; Mr. J. C. Langford, M.P. for Calgary East, and Mr. Victor Quelch, M.P. for Acadia, are the Alberta Members of the Banking and Commerce Committee. It is a large Committee with every Province and every political party represented, so you see that the people do not lack in any sense, for the most penetrating examination of the business of banking. Who regulates the banks? None other than the Canadian people through their elected representatives.

Into the Bank Act, by reason of the work of the Committee from year to year, have been built all of the safeguards arising from the lessons of the past.

Now I would like to deal with the services that a bank performs. These are many and varied. The bank accounts and safeguards your deposits and extends the credit based upon them to responsible people.

Alberta folk will easily follow the situation of bank credit I'm now going to give you. This is harvest-time and in the fortunate parts of the Province the farmer is starting to haul his grain to the elevator. When he delivers his wagon-load there, he gets a grain ticket.

He takes the ticket into the bank and the bank gives him cash for it.

What does the bank do with the grain ticket then?

At the end of the day the bank lists separately all of the grain tickets issued by each elevator company. It sends them to Calgary or Winnipeg, to be collected from the Head Office of the Elevator Company which issued the tickets.

How does the Elevator Company redeem the tickets? During the movement of a heavy crop, such a company is not likely to have sufficient funds of its own to purchase all of the grain handled from day to day.

So the bank advances the sum required against the security of the grain, until the buyer in Liverpool pays for it. The bank collects from him. The proceeds go to the grain company which pays off the money the bank advanced.

What happens is this:

The farmer gets his cash on delivery of the grain to the elevator without any waiting. And the bank provides credit from that moment on, until the grain is paid for, probably months later.

Let me point out that the "tickets" were anchored to something — in this case they were anchored to the finest form of real wealth — new wealth — grain, newly produced from the soil. You know no ship can be anchored safely unless the anchor is firmly embedded in something.

We extend bank credit to people who can, with some certainty, be expected to repay. We can only lend to responsible people because we ourselves are responsible to the depositors.

The banks provide the machinery for carrying out dozens of widely-varied, day-to-day transactions; simplifying business and facilitating the exchange of goods and services. The bank provides a place for you to leave in safe custody valuable documents or other papers; your title deeds; your life and fire insurance policies; valuables such as jewelry; and stocks and bonds. The bank collects your commercial bills, either at home or abroad. It transfers money from one part of the country to another, as you may require; and it takes care of shipment and safeguarding of securities. These are only examples of the services a Chartered Bank performs.

No doubt many of our listeners have been told that banks simply swap cheques. There seems to be an idea that there is never any settlement between banks. Here is another homely illustration: Tom Smith, in Calgary, runs a clothing store and Jim McGregor goes in to buy a suit of clothes. He gives Tom Smith his cheque for, say $27.50. The cheque is drawn on Jim's bank — let's call it Bank A. On the other hand Tom does business with Bank B so Tom deposits Jim's cheque in Bank B and immediately gets credit for the face amount.

But then what happens? Does Bank B simply send the cheque to Bank A, and does Bank A simply cancel that cheque and destroy it, after deducting the $27.50 from Jim's account?

No — what does happen is this — Before Jim McGregor's cheque gets back to Jim's bank it has to go through the Clearing House. The Clearing House is part of a national system, under which settlements are effected through the Bank of Canada. Daily each bank gathers together and totals the cheques deposited with it which are drawn upon each of the other banks. Every morning these are taken to the Clearing House. Where it is found that one bank has a balance due to it from any other bank, the difference is settled daily through the Bank of Canada, by the payment of cash — not chartered bank bills — cash. This ultimate settlement through the Clearing House system is altogether ignored, or is too little understood, by many of those who criticize the Banks.

It is not difficult to understand when reduced to its simplest terms. We point out to you that, if Jim McGregor's cheque was the only cheque issued that day, Jim's Bank, Bank A, would have had to pay to Tom's bank, Bank B, the sum of $27.50 in cash — bills of the Bank of Canada.

Every balance between banks is ultimately settled in cash.

Now who owns the banks? There are more than 49,000 shareholders in Canada's Chartered Banks — more than 500 of them in Alberta. Most of the shareholders are small — the average is less than 30 shares. Many of the shareholders are women to whom bank shares have been willed or Trustees who hold the shares for Estates of persons who have died. Many others are individuals who, after a lifetime of toil have sold their farms, or other holdings, and invested their money in bank shares as a source of income. These are examples to show the kind of people who own Canada's Banks. These are the people who are accused of being a part of the fabled "International Ring." They are mostly Canadians, your fellow-citizens, and most of the business that is done by their banks is Canadian business. Some of you may have been given a word-picture of a small group of men, owning all the banks, sitting around a table and conspiring daily to use all of everybody else's money for their own profit. Let us examine it — There is no concentration of power in the hands of any small group. The shareholders annually elect, of their own free choice, 167 Directors of known and proven business ability. Their work is to safeguard the interests of the shareholders, note-holders and depositors, in co-operation with the salaried executives — every one of whom started out as a junior in some small branch. These Directors own less than four per cent of the shares issued.

Banks each month have to report to the Government sworn particulars of the loans made to Bank Directors and to firms in which they are partners and loans for which they are guarantors. The most recent report shows that these advances are only a 108th part of the total bank loans.

No Director of a bank may vote, nor may he even be present at a meeting of the Board, when loans to himself, or any business concern in which he is a partner or director, are under consideration.

About 40% of Canada's people have savings deposits. Applying the same percentage to the population of Alberta it would appear that roughly 240,000 Albertans are savings depositors. A bank deposit is a loan to the bank. It is a debt owing by the bank. If there is a tyranny in lending are the banks tyrannized by the depositors? When a friend borrows from another is the lender a tyrant? We leave the answer to our listeners.

Parliament in its wisdom, acting upon recommendations of the Banking and Commerce Committee from time to time, has legislated to prevent the banks from doing certain things.

A bank may not lend money on mortgages, for loans must be of short term and quickly realizable. A bank is forbidden to engage in trade. It cannot buy, or lend, against its own shares or those of any other bank.

There are provisions that restrict a bank in lending to any Director. It cannot let its name appear on certain prospectuses. It cannot let its staff represent insurance companies and there are heavy penalties laid down for violation of these and other provisions of the Bank Act.

Canada's Chartered Banks are not your masters; they are not tyrannical; they are your servants — The Canadian People, through their Parliament, have so legislated as to keep them that way.

Just before my time is up, I would like to say that I have before me a poster which an organization in Edmonton is sending out over the Province. It says, "Tax the Banks — it Costs them Nothing."

The poster to which I have referred presumes to quote from the Encyclopedia Britannica, but I assure you that the extracts are divorced from their context and are so used as to convey a meaning exactly opposite from the meaning intended by the author, Mr. R. G. Hawtree, an officer of the British Treasury.

You all know that when you pay taxes it costs you something. A bank is no different, in that respect, from any of you. Would your own municipality say that when the bank pays its taxes, the municipality gets nothing? However, we do not plan to waste time on absurdities, but let me say just this: That we showed you last week, that 180 bank branches in Alberta were operated at a loss in 1935, and that new and added taxes had since been imposed.

We showed you the alternative — either pass the added charges on to our customers, or close branches to the point where ends can be made to meet. If it cost us nothing to pay taxes, we would have no such alternative to worry about.

SEEMING PERSECUTION!

Savoring greatly of persecution, "The Accurate News and Information Act" which was introduced by the Aberhart government at Edmonton last week, is possibly the most flagrant attempt ever made to regiment the press of Alberta for the purpose of propaganda by the legislative powers that be.

Considering that, practically the whole of the newspapers published in our province have at times been critical of many of the enforcements of the present government—and as they all depend for their existence upon their circulation and their advertising—it must be fully realized that they represent a very large body of public opinion. This, then, makes the present proposals of entire control by the government look like an attempt to completely stifle all criticism of that government.

Very truly indeed to a full democracy is freedom of both speech and press, and it is our full belief that readers of The Star are not anxious to have their reading matter "Hilted" or "censored," but rather that they desire to follow the advice of the late W. T. Stead and "hear all sides!"

This is a freedom which for the past 200 years has been enjoyed by the peoples of the British Empire, and one which is not likely to be given up freely, despite the seeming desire of the Aberhart government to show the picture of their position regarding broken promises and other matters from one viewpoint only.

Through the courtesy of the Edmonton Journal we are able to publish in full the text of the brief which was presented by the newspaper publishers of Alberta to the government on Friday last, and a perusal of this brief will clearly show that such an Act as is intended to pass is an ABSOLUTE ALBERTA'S NEWSPAPERS!

UNLIMITED DICTATORSHIP!

Whatever may be behind the sponsoring of the new "Licensing of Trades and Businesses Act" there is one point which is plainly to be understood by all peoples under the control of the Alberta legislature which is seeking to pass this act, viz., that its enactment into law will place in the hands of Mr. Manning (who is to be responsible for its enforcement) an absolute DICTATOR-SHIP OF BUSINESS MEN, EMPLOYERS

AND EMPLOYEES.

Under the provisions of the Act he will have power to regiment and license ALL persons engaged or employed in ANY business required to be so licensed, and to prohibit the carrying on of a business where such is not so licensed and registered and also to specify any goods, wares and merchandise which MAY NOT be sold and to PROHIBIT their sale. Everyone contravening the Act "shall be liable to a fine or imprisonment."

Such a drastic step towards an absolute dictatorship—such a stranglehold upon the business of our prov-

GOVERNMENT AND THE FARMER

How far should Government subsidize agriculture? How hard should farmers lean on Government? These are questions which have an important bearing on the future of the country, and on which there is no general agreement.

In New York State, where agricultural conditions are back more heavily to normal than in any other state, Governor Lehman the other day defined his concept of the duty of the state to the farmer. He said:

"The State must of course give certain protection to farm products and to consumers by passing laws to insure purity, grade standardization of products and protection against disease and insects. These are basic and must always continue. But what in addition to these? Each year I am more and more convinced that the greatest aid a state can give to the people of the open country is through an adequate support for education and agricultural research."

That is a pretty clear statement of the case against direct farm subsidies. If farming is regarded as a mode of living rather than primarily a commercial industry, there will be widespread agreement with Gov.

Lehman's position.

A WELCOME TO AUTUMN

Over most of Canada the Autumn season, on which we are now entering, is the pleasantest season of the whole year. Nothing like the North American Autumn is known to the people of Europe. Over there the Spring is the pleasant time of long draw-out mildness between the chill of Winter and the heat of Summer. In this country the seasons break abruptly in the Spring, Summer temperatures succeeding Winter so swiftly that the interval is hardly noticed. But at the end of Summer we are plunged at once into Winter. Instead, we have the long Autumn, weeks and sometimes months in which it is still enjoyable to remain out of doors most of the time, before we look for snow and ice.

For country folk in the North, especially, Autumn is the best season of all. The hard work of the farm is over, the crops have been harvested and stored or sold and there is a breathing-spell in which the farmer and his household can relax and "go visiting," attend to a hundred things for which time could not be spared in Summer, perhaps take a long motor trip.

The shooting season is open, or soon will be, almost everywhere.

Whether one brings back any game or not, there are few things more relaxing and invigorating than a day in the woods with gun and dog.

Nowhere is the air so clean, nowhere does Nature make such a powerful appeal to the nomadic spirit which is in all of us, as in the northern woods when the leaves have begun to turn from summer green to their Autumn brilliance of red, yellow and brown.

Nor is Autumn in the South without its delights for the lover of the out-of-doors. The fish are still bitting, the 'coons and foxes are darling the hound-dogs to catch them.

"Brer Rabbit" is shaking his cotton tail in the clearing by the dispatch, and the fragrance of the tall plains is like incense ascending in Nature's cathedral of the great out-of doors, in which their straight trunks are the pillars supporting the high dome.

This is the best of all times of the year.

freedom of choice in labor leaders of

be insecurity in the long run.

The one way in which any young curity is to master some trade, craft

The highly-skilled worker is seldom men who had never developed their payroll.

Too much attention and effort has been directed toward getting more

Dear Sir—A situation undreamed

Drought has come to be the out-

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

TEN YEARS AGO

Mr. O. M. Lewis, a resident of this district since 1906, passed away at the home of his daughter Mrs. R. Mackay, following a lengthy illness. He was in his 73rd year.

The few barrels of crude oil which the Town Council spread on some of the main streets proved to be quite an asset to traffic.

The 76th anniversary of the founding of the Order of the Rebekah Lodge, was celebrated by the local organization on Thursday evening last. Mr. P. Morris was adjudged the best "mulliner" and awarded the prize for trimming a lady's hat.

Measrs. Owen Pigeon and Bill Blinn have been employed at the Atha yards in addition to the regular staff.

A fire was discovered coming from the garage at the rear of Mr. J. Richardson's home on Sixth avenue late Saturday evening. Neighbors rushing out to help, found that the blaze was coming from the seats of the car which vehicle they were able to pull out of the building, but not before the interior of the car and the roof were destroyed.

Mr. Joe Cameron, former Town policeman, is now operating the Buffalo Barn on Third avenue west.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. H. C. Wallace when the United church choir entertained in honor of Mrs. R. Brown who was leaving town. During the evening the guest of honor was presented with a small gift in appreciation of her services rendered.

Mr. Roy Berray was appointed Town policeman and Utility man at the regular meeting of the council last week.

$ WHITE CLOUD $

Miss Betty Bab, who was on the sick list last week, is now feeling better.

Mr. Henry Myer of Ponoka was visiting friends and relatives in this district last week.

Having disposed of their effects at a sale held Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Palma Tondy left on Saturday for their home at Vancouver, B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roberts, who have been visiting their parents at Sheepskin Flats, left at the weekend for their home at Powell River, B.C.

Mrs. W. Bissom visited with her niece, Mrs. P. Rajotte of Greenshields, this week, prior to Mrs. Rajotte's departure to the east on Thursday's train.

$ GREENSHIELDS $

We are sorry to learn that Miss Beryl Jackson is a patient at the local hospital and we wish her a speedy and complete recovery.

The pupils of the Greenshields school attended the track meet in Wainwright on Saturday, Leatha Carl obtaining the highest points. Mrs. Philip Rajotte and daughter Yvonne left on Thursday for Toronto. Mr. Rajotte will leave this week accompanied by Mr. Peter Blinn.

Mr. Lloyd Hughes left last week for Ontario where he has gone to complete his studies.

Miss Ferna Rajotte spent a few days with her parents, returning to Edmonton on Wednesday to continue working at the Capitol Beauty parlor.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. A. G. Sinclair, wife of the station agent here, left on Tuesday for an extended holiday to be spent in the east.

At the regular meeting of the Young People's society last week, an enjoyable evening was spent in a picture guessing contest. Miss Edith Pigeon and Mr. Jack Reid were the winners.

Miss Hazel Ward, manageress of the local telephone exchange, left to spend her annual holidays in Biggar.

Mr. W. McKay left for Chauvin to fill a contract for the erection of a new flour mill at that point.

A popular young couple were married on September 20th in the persons of Miss Florence Arnilla McKinn and Mr. Rube Isaac Carl.

Mr. E. Green of the Gilt Edge district, purchased a new D35 McLaughlin car from the local dealers.

Mr. Tom Anneloy, for some time foreman of the local G.T.P. roundhouse was transferred to similar duties at Prince Rupert.

Madeline Carrol in Mystery Drama

Essentially this is a drama with heart appeal, but this element is effectively supported by an engaging romantic love interest contrast and a line of comedy in situations, action and dialogue. Suspense of uncertainty developing immediately, the film moves at a speedy pace.

Hope Ames, on trial for husband murder, is being rigorously prosecuted by Matt Logan and apathetically defended by Watson. When the jury brings in a not-guilty verdict, Logan excoerates the jury as a collection of insane sentimentalists. Jailed for his effrontery, he is released through the influence of Mrs. Ames, who is engaged by him to investigate her case and also to aid her in regaining custody of son Bobbie. In charge of morallistically narrow-minded grandmother who hates her daughter-in-law. Under these circumstances Mrs. Ames and Matt fall into constant love.

Following his investigation in which the efforts of the elder Mrs. Ames to retain custody of Bobbie add to dramatic suspense, Logan discovers evidence which gives him reason to ask for another trial. Gathering realistic force, the picture brings a situation in which it is revealed that—

While realistic, "The Case Against Mrs. Ames," the first-of-the-week feature at the Elite is not grim or solemn. The quantity and quality of comedy contrast provides plenty of laughs.

$ Sheepskin Flats $

A shower was held at the school on Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Malcolm, when the young couple received many very useful and pretty gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myer of Ponoka were in the district for a few days last week visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Roberts and baby left for Edmonton on Saturday night where they will spend a few days before returning to their home at Powell River, B.C.

The Legion Notice Board

In the last number of The Legionary the following verse is printed without comment or author's name. We pass it on:—

SAY IT NOW

If with pleasure you are viewing
Any work a man is doing,
If you like him, or you love him,
Tell him now.
Don't withhold your approbation
Till the person makes oration.
And he lies with snowy limbs
On his brow.

For no matter how you shout it
He won't really care about it.
He won't know how many tear-drops
You have shed.

If you think some praise is due him
Now's the time to give it to him.
FOR HE CANNOT READ HIS TOMBSTONE
WHEN HE'S DEAD.

As we go to press—if that expression is allowed a mere correspondent—very favourable comments have been received regarding "Salute to Valour" which is now showing at the Elite Theatre and we feel somewhat repaid for our efforts.

The following is a Notice of Motion to be dealt with at our next executive meeting to be held on October 18th when it will be put to a vote:—

"Whereas we view with alarm the general trend of recently proposed provincial legislation such as:—
(1) The Alberta Press Control Bill;
(2) The Trades and Business Licensing Act, which includes all forms of employment;
(3) The closing of the Courts to certain sections of our citizens.
Therefore, be it resolved that we go on record as protesting the enforcement of these Acts as being the forerunners of Dictatorship and contrary to Democratic ideals."

$ SYDENHAM $

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Carl and little Pauline of Greenshields were visiting on Sunday with Mrs. Carl's parents.

Mrs. J. Ruste returned to her home on Monday after spending the week-end visiting with friends in Edmonton.

Rev. P. A. Rickard was visiting in this district on Thursday. Mrs. Moore from Montreal, is spending a holiday with her daughter Mrs. D. Jones.

We are pleased to note from Mrs. Church, sr., (who is still residing at the home of her son) that Mrs. C. Church, who has been very sick in the hospital in Edmonton is now pressing nicely.

Mr. W. G. McKay was busy for a few days this week working on his farm.

There is still quite a bit of threatening to be done in this district. Threatening weather holds the work up.

F. BRENNAN PASSES AWAY AT HOSPITAL

There passed away at the hospital on Monday morning, Mr. Fred Brennan at the age of 62 years.

The late Mr. Brennan who has been a resident of the Gilt Edge district for the past ten years, suffered a heart attack.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. T. E. Armstrong officiating. McLeod's parlors had charge of arrangements.

SECOND INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle L ranch to find his father dead and minister forces at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison.

Starbuck nodded and poked a legal looking envelope lying on the desk. "Got word yesterday. What yuh ain't to do Slim?"

"Go out to the Circle L an' get to work."

"Glad to hear that. Was afraid yuh'd come back with the idea of startin' trouble. An' that'd be bad with yuh on parole."

Slim's lips tightened. "I ain't aimin' to turn the other cheek, Jigger," he said softly. "Remember, I'm human. Certain folks in this neck of the woods gave me a dirty deal. I ain't exactly gonna kiss 'em when I run into 'em, but I know what that parole means."

"At the first sign of trouble I go back to hell. Well, I ain't to do the best I can. But if some folks start trompin' on my toes, I'll see that they get off. Yuh can't blame me for that?"

"I ain't blamin' yuh for nothin', Slim. But my personal feelin's ain't matterin' one little bit in this. It's the law yuh're beholden to. So yuh wanna watch yore step."

Slim laughed a little harshly. "Yuh still got ice water for blood, ain't yuh? Yore a funny guy, Jigger. Sometimes I think yore white, an' sometimes I ain't so shore."

Starbuck shrugged without offense. "I took my oath to uphold an' enforce the law. It ain't me to question how it works. I aim to do my duty."

"Yuh would," retorted Slim tersely, "even if it broke yore own heart an' ruined yore best friend. Well, I didn't come in here to get into a argument. I was told to report here at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison."

"After that I'm sayin' own boss."

It landed with a spat on young Brockwell's mouth and he went backwards clanking at his gun.

again. An' after eighteen months certain folks in these parts are gonna find that a woolly wolf has come back to live with 'em. Nobody can steal a year and a half of my life, blast my reputation, an' get away with it. Now I'll thank yuh for my guns, Jigger. I suppose yuh still got 'em?"

"I've got 'em," nodded Starbuck. "But I rather yuh wouldn't wear 'em, Slim. They'll be a temptation—" a bad temptation, as long as they're hangin' on yore hip. If yuh go to throwin' 'em, it's hard tellin' just how yuh'll end up."

"That's my pie," said Slim grimly. "I want 'em."

Starbuck shrugged again, crossed to a little clothes closet and lifted down a pair of cartridge belts, carrying two heavy holstered Colts. He handed them to Slim, who buckled them about his waist, as he stepped to the door. "Much obliged, Jigger," he said over his shoulder. "See yuh two weeks from now."

Loyale left the sheriff's office and started to cross the street. A truck-board was whirling up from the south end of the street, drawn by a fast-stepping pair of bang-tail mules.

Before Slim could think, she had stepped close to him, risen on her tiptoes and kissed him. "Satisfied?" Her smile was a little tremulous.

"For a moment Slim could not answer. 'It's worth goin' through hell to come back to heaven,' he muttered finally. "Mona, yore a little thoroughbred, same as always. But yuh'll be ruinin' yore reputation, kisser's a convict."

Mona stamped one little, booted foot. "Then, don't mention that word to me again. You are just an innocent man who has gotten a mighty shady deal. And if I can't kiss my old pal hello, I want to know why."

"I'm glad yuh feel that way about the innocent part, Mona. Some folks don't agree with yuh."

"Other folks be hangin'!" she retorted sprightly. "I know yuh, Slim Loyale, better than anybody else. I ought to; we grew up together. Now let's talk of other things. Yuh'll be going out to the Circle L, I suppose?"

PEACHES IN THE MENU

As the result of a bumper crop this season, peaches are abundant and are being freely used in the daily menu as fruit desserts, and in salads, pies, puddings, and in several other ways. Housewives are taking advantage of the big harvest and are setting up a winter store of home-canned peaches. In all ways, the peach is pre-eminent. The following recipes may prove useful.

Peach Marmalade

18 peaches
2 oranges
Sugar
Water

Peel and stone the peaches. Remove seeds from oranges and put through a food chopper. Mash all together, weigh and allow an equal amount of sugar. First cook the fruit until tender in a small amount of water, then add heated sugar and boil quickly until thick. Pour into hot, sterilized glasses, seal with paraffin wax and store.

Peach Cantaloupe Marmalade

12 peaches
3 oranges
1 cantaloupe
Sugar

Peel and stone the peaches. Peel oranges and remove the skin from the melon. Slice fruit finely. Measure and add an equal quantity of sugar. Boil quickly until thick. Seal and store.

Peach and Apple Marmalade

Use equal parts of peaches and apples, diced. If the apples are a good colour, do not peel them. Add three-fourths as much sugar as fruit. Cook the mixture slowly until thick and clear. Seal in clean, hot jars. Equal parts of rhubarb, peaches and apples may be used.

Five Fruit Pickle Sauce

6 peaches
6 apples
6 pears
20 tomatoes
1 pint pitted plums
3 red peppers
5 cups sugar
2 sticks cinnamon
1 tablespoon mixed sauce
2 tablespoons salt
1 quart vinegar

Boil 3 hours. Makes 7 pint jars. Cantaloupe and Peach Preserve

3 cups diced peaches
3 cups sugar
1/2 cup blanched shredded almonds

2 cups diced Cantaloupe
2 oranges, juice and rind

Mix all ingredients and cook until the mixture is thick and clear. Pour into sterilized glasses. When cold cover with hot paraffin wax.

Peach Conserve (Method I)

24 large peaches
1 1/2 cups seedless raisins
2 lemons (juice and grated rind)
3 1/2 lbs. sugar
2 oranges (juice and grated rind)

Peel and slice the peaches. Add the sugar, raisins, juice and grated rind of the lemons and oranges and let stand overnight. In the morning, cook slowly until thick; put in hot sterile glass.

Peach Conserve (Method II)

24 large peaches
3 oranges (juice and grated rind)
1/2 lb. shelled almonds (blanched and cut lengthwise in pieces)
3 1/2 lbs. sugar

2 lemons (juice and grated rind)

Same method as in No. 1, only that ten minutes before removing the conserve from the fire, add the almonds.

Peach Conserve (Method III)

24 large peaches
2 oranges (juice and grated rind)
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1/2 lb. shelled almonds (blanched and cut lengthwise in pieces)
3 1/2 lbs. sugar

1 lemon (juice and grated rind)

Same method as in No. 1.

NEVER FAIL CHOCOLATE PIE

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-1/3 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1/4 cup water

Baked pie shell (8-inch)

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk, stirring over boiling water 5 minutes until mixture thickens. Add water, stir until thoroughly blended. Pour into baked pie shell. Garnish with whipped cream if desired. Chill.

ANY BRIDE CAN SCORE

HONORS AS A QUEEN COOK IF SHE USES THESE MAGIC, FAILURE-PROOF RECIPES

"Grainy" frostings and "runny," creamy pies were failures that embarrassed even the most expert cook when grandmother was a bride. Just, nowadays, even the beginner can score honors as a queen cook, if she uses the magic in a can of sweetened condensed milk. Just add melted chocolate to this magic milk, and in five minutes you have a rich, creamy filling for a pie supreme, that is never too thick or too thin. Made with this magic milk, frostings always spread in creamy smooth swirls.

HOW'S YOUR BUSINESS ?

It is not a mere coincidence that newspaper advertising volume continues to grow and that business continues to expand. There is business to be had in an ever-swelling volume and the wise business man knows that the way to get it is through newspaper advertising. The concerns that had the greatest increase in volume last year were those that did the greatest amount of newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising pays today as never before because the consumer knows that steadily rising prices of consumer commodities makes keen buying imperative if the budget is not to be stretched too far, and reads the advertisements.

Newspaper advertising has played a great part in creating modern civilization. It has brought about large-scale production and lower prices, thus benefiting both producer and consumer. It will play an even larger role in the post depression days. There is a pent-up market for goods today that can be turned into mass sales by the newspaper advertiser, and the people are reading the ads as never before to determine where they can spend their money to the best advantage.

WAINWRIGHT STAR

This Week in Washington

Washington.—The people who will have the job of administering the laws enacted by the session of Congress lately adjourned are busy now studying the new legislation and working out plans to put it into effect. These people, the permanent staff of the Executive Department constitute the eyes, ears and hands of the President. They are all, with few exceptions, responsible to him directly or through the members of the Cabinet or the heads of the special administrative units.

President Roosevelt has, here in Washington and scattered throughout the Nation, more of these helpers than any President has ever had, except President Wilson in war time. Mr. Wilson had 917,760 assistants Mr. Roosevelt has 841,964. Their monthly payroll is $127,306,469, according to the latest report of the Civil Service Commission. The number of these Federal employees has been steadily increasing for the past four years.

Part of the increase is due to the adoption by the Government of the 40-hour week, necessitating employing more persons to do the same amount of work. This has been especially felt in the Post Office where operations are continuous, and the growth of business activity has increased the amount of work to be done.

United States Housing Authority
The administration of the Wagner Housing Act, passed in the closing days of the session will not call for the creation of a brand-new bureau, though it will require additions to the staff of the housing division of the Department of the Interior. The law creates the United States Housing Authority and places it under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, adding another responsibility to the long list of jobs which Secretary Ickes already had.

The housing division of the P. W. A. under his direction has provided funds and supervised the construction of many thousands of low-cost dwelling units to replace city slums and has a large staff of men and women who already know more about the problems involved in carrying out the provisions of the new Housing Act than a new organization could learn in several years.

The Housing Act, as finally passed into law, provides for loans from the Federal Treasury to states and municipalities, or housing authorities created by them, of money to be paid back in 60 years for the purpose of replacing "slum" houses with modern homes for the poor.

Unemployed Census
The new Act is expected to stimulate the building industry and help reduce unemployment by providing work for artisans in the building trades and all of the industries producing building materials.

Another new administrative activity imposed on the Executive Department by the Congress is that of taking a census of the unemployed. Strictly speaking, what the law sponsored by Representative Mary T. Norton of New Jersey calls for is not a census. It does not provide for an accurate count of the jobless, nor any inquiry as to how they got that way and whether they are employable. It merely requires the Government to provide facilities whereby those who have no work may register voluntarily before April 1, 1938.

Since the records of the Works Progress Administration already contain a fairly accurate picture of the persons who have sought work relief, and the United States Employment Service has a record of all persons seeking employment from it, it is felt here that the plan can only supply information concerning the unemployed who are still unknown to the relief agencies. Since there is no compulsion on any such person to register, it seems unlikely that those many of work who have been too proud or too lazy to ask for assistance from existing agencies will bother, to any great extent, to register for the so-called "census."

The Works Progress Administration has lately reported its estimate that there are about 7,000,000 persons now unemployed outside of the agricultural industries. This figure compares with estimates of between 13,000,000 and 18,000,000 at the depth of the depression. The number of those then unemployed has been reduced by the re-employment of some 8,800,000 in private industry, but the total is augmented by an estimated 4,000,000 young men who have reached employable age in the past four years and have not been able to find jobs. The W. P. A.'s estimates are challenged in many quarters being too high, especially in the number of new workers entering the field annually. This is generally figured at half a million a year.

Opposition by the W.P.A. is credited with blocking the broader plan originally proposed by Mrs. Norton of a thorough investigation which would bring out all the facts and provide a sound basis for future relief legislation and appropriations. Congress had one of its rare fits of economy and rejected that plan on the plea that it would cost too much. It appropriated $5,000,000 for the voluntary registration plan.

Miller-Tydings Law
One act of this Congress is giving the Department of Justice some concern. That is the Miller-Tydings law amending the basic anti-trust laws prohibiting combinations or price-fixing agreements in restraints of trade. The new law validates agreements between a manufacturer or producer of any commodity, and the retail distributors to whom he sells, whereby the retailer is bound not to sell at a lower price than that fixed by the producer.

This is a revolutionary reversal of Federal policies and laws which have been upheld by the courts since 1890, when the first anti-trust law, the Sherman Act, was passed. The Attorney-General's office is fearful that it may handicap it in its prosecution of several anti-trust suits, notably the action pending against the Aluminum Corporation of America, which the late Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, was the controlling factor.

GIVE FAIR PLAY TO THE FAIRWAY

The historic coast town of St. Andrews, in Fife, is recognized universally as headquarters of the Royal and Ancient game, and if a saint would condescend to patronize it—assuming that the game is in need of saintly patronage—then St. Andrew of Scotland might be fittingly invoked by the golfer.

The game originally was played by the sea where the grass of the "links," close cropped by sheep, made ideal fairways, while the sand dunes and pits were the natural bunkers and water hazards, obstacles which are constructed at considerable cost on our modern, more artificial course. This may be the answer to a question often asked: how could a game so expensive as golf have originated in Scotland?

On the inland courses, this side of the Atlantic, conditions for grass growing are less favorable than in the sea-girt isles of the United Kingdom and the maintenance of greens and fairways are much more costly, to say nothing of the more elaborate "nineteenth hole".

Good greens and fairways, says B. Leslie Emalie, cannot be established and maintained without the aid of suitable fertilizers, and these are now more scientifically blended and balanced and less costly than of yore. At first care was bestowed primarily on putting greens and approaches, the fairway being neglected insofar as fertilizing was concerned, but now many realize that the feeding of the fairway grasses is scarcely less important than the feeding of the greens.

There was a fairway fertilizer, designed for spring application, of 5-12-2 analysis, the figures shown representing percentages of nitrogen, available phosphoric acid and potash, respectively. This has now been replaced by a 4-12-6. But a superior treatment for fairways was discovered to be the application in fall—during September or October—of 20 per cent superphosphate on the heavier or of 0-16-6 fertilizer on the lighter soils, at the rate of about 300 lbs. per acre. This is followed in spring with 25 lbs. of 10-5-2 per acre, and the application may be repeated, if necessary, from 4 to 6 weeks later. After two years the fall treatment may be discontinued for a year or two, as there will be sufficient residual phosphate in the soil for the continued development of the deeper root system which it encouraged, making the grasses more drought resistant.

The 10-5-2 fertilizer is also the popular one for greens and, except during periods of heat and drought, is applied monthly at the rate of 10 lbs. to 1000 square feet. The frequent close mowing of greens makes a heavy draft on nitrogen especially; consequently the fertilizer must be high in that element.

On the golf course at St. Andrews, Toronto, where the Open Championship was held in 1936 and will be again this month, a systematic programme of fertilizing, as represented above, has been followed for the past five years. The marvelous improvement has astounded those who were familiar with the parched appearance of the patchy fairways before fertilizers came to the rescue.

THIS MACHINE IS THE ANSWER TO YOUR SEEDING AND CULTIVATING PROBLEMS

CORONATION MODEL

In commemoration of the Coronation of His Majesty King George the Sixth, the Massey-Harris 1937 One-Way Disc Seeder has been specially finished and painted in the distinguishing coronation colors and will be known as "Coronation Model". Place your order early with your local Massey-Harris Agent for one of these distinctive machines.

Experience has shown thousands of Western farmers that their Massey-Harris One-Way Discs have amply repaid them in better work at less cost.

For Seeding, Summer Fallow and after Harvest Cultivation it has no equal.

The new One-Way Disc and One-Way Disc Seeder not only replaces ploughing, cultivating, harrowing and seeding by doing the whole job in one operation, but has been found the most effective means of weed control on summer fallow. Not only are the weeds destroyed, but soil blowing has been overcome with this machine.

Ask your neighbor about his Massey-Harris One-Way Disc. Ask your local Agent about it. He can tell you the experiences of those farmers who have found the Massey-Harris One-Way Disc method of doing their job to be the most effective and least costly yet devised.

Truly, as one prominent Western farmer has said, "Weeds, Dry Weather, Soil Blowing and High Production costs are licked with the Massey-Harris One-Way Disc".
